WhatsApp Outreach Sequence – Warm-Network First, Then 2nd Degree

Core principle: WhatsApp is India's real B2B channel. Higher reply rate than email, lower latency, higher trust – but only with people who already have your number. Never cold-blast; only message people who have reason to recognise the sender.

Rule: Every WhatsApp message is personalised, from Anushka's own phone, via WhatsApp Business. Never use bulk broadcast tools (violates ToS, account gets banned).

Setup checklist (5 minutes)

1. On Anushka's phone, download WhatsApp Business (free, separate from personal WhatsApp)
2. Register with her business number (could be same as personal, but recommended: get a dedicated SIM for business if feasible)
3. Fill business profile:
 - Name: Anushka B – AICloudStrategist
 - Description: "Cloud cost optimisation for Indian mid-market. Free 30-min Cloud Cost Health Check. Rohini, Delhi."
 - Website: aicloudstrategist.com
 - Address: Rohini, Delhi 110085
 - Business hours: 10am-6pm IST, Mon-Fri
 - Business category: IT services

4. Set greeting message (auto-sent to first-time contacts):

Hi – thanks for reaching out. Anushka here from AICloudStrategist.

Quick context: I run a founder-led cloud cost consultancy out of Delhi. We help Indian companies cut AWS / Azure / GCP bills 20-30% in four weeks.

Happy to chat whenever works for you. If you want to skip ahead and book a free 30-min Cloud Cost Health Check, it's at aicloudstrategist.com/book.html.

I reply to all messages within the business day. – A

5. Set quick replies for common questions (saves typing):
 - `/pricing` → pricing link
 - `/checklist` → AWS Cost Cutting Checklist PDF
 - `/book` → booking link
 - `/about` → 3-line positioning

Message 1 – Warm-Network Opener (Day 1-3 push)

Send to every single person in Anushka's phone contacts who works in tech. Target 50 sends across 3 days.

Hey {firstname} – Anushka here.

Quick update: I've officially launched my cloud cost consultancy under the brand AICloudStrategist. We help Indian companies cut their AWS / Azure / GCP bills 20-30% in about four weeks. Founder-led delivery, senior-architect reviewed.

Two asks, no obligation either way:

1. Does your company (or any company you know) spend over 5 lakh/month on cloud? If yes, I'd love a 15-min intro call – I'm offering a free 30-min Cloud Cost Health Check to first-time contacts.

2. If it's not you – would you forward this to one person in your network who might care?

Either way, good to reconnect. Site's at aicloudstrategist.com if you want to have a look.

Customisation rules: - Replace {firstname} always - Add ONE specific personal note before this – how you know them / last time you met / shared context - If you can't remember how you know them, skip the send. Don't fake warmth.

Message 2 – Referral Ask (5 days after Message 1 if they replied warmly)

Send only if they replied positively but their own company isn't a fit.

Appreciate the note {firstname} – genuinely.

Can I make one more ask: if you think of even one person in your network who fits (Indian SaaS/AI/fintech, engineering leader, running AWS or Azure, spending >5L/month) – would you pass my details on?

I'll make sure they have a good experience either way. And I owe you one.

Message 3 – Introduction Accepted (when they introduce you)

When {referrer} introduces Anushka to {newcontact} in a group chat:

Thanks for the intro {referrer} – taking this off the group so we don't clog it up.

Hi {newcontact}, Anushka here from AICloudStrategist. {referrer} thought you'd be worth a conversation – really appreciate that.

Quick question so I can tailor the conversation: is {newcontact's company} on AWS, Azure, GCP, or a mix? And is there a specific cost pressure happening right now, or is it more a general audit?

I have some time Wed / Thu afternoon IST – would a 30-min call work? You can grab a slot directly: aicloudstrategist.com/book.html – or just reply with what works.

Then immediately DM {referrer} separately:

{referrer} – genuinely grateful for the intro. I'll keep you posted on how it goes. If it converts, I'd like to send a small thank-you (not awkward – an honest referral fee or a gift, your preference).

Message 4 – Post-Call Follow-up (within 2 hours of discovery call)

Hey {firstname} – great chatting.

Quick summary of what I heard:

- {one-line recap of their current cloud stack}
- {one-line recap of their cost pressure / trigger}
- {what they said they wanted next}

Based on that, I'd suggest we do a FinOps QuickStart – 2 weeks, 75K flat (or 40K if we close within our first-customer window – details: aicloudstrategist.com/first-customer.html).

Proposal coming to your email in the next 2 hours. Any questions before you see it, drop them here.

Message 5 – Gentle Nudge (Day 3 after proposal, if no reply)

Hey {firstname} – quick nudge on the proposal from {day}. Any questions I can clear up? Happy to walk through any section on a 10-min call if useful.

No pressure on timing.

Message 6 – Honest Close (Day 14 after proposal, if still no reply)

{firstname} – going to stop nudging, don't want to overstay.

If {company} decides to move forward any time this quarter, the 40K first-customer pricing is good through May 15. After that it's back to 75K, which is still a reasonable deal but just heads up.

Thanks for the conversation regardless – means a lot as we're getting off the ground.

What NOT to send via WhatsApp

- PDFs or large files (goes to “Document” view which people ignore – use a link instead)
 - Multiple messages in quick succession (comes across as spammy)
 - Voice notes unless specifically requested (many Indian professionals find unrequested voice notes presumptuous in business contexts)
 - Messages after 8pm or before 9am IST
 - Messages on Sundays
 - Any automation (bulk-send, auto-reply beyond greeting, scheduled blasts)

Reply handling

- Within 2 hours during business hours: reply with substantive text, not just emoji
 - Outside business hours: greeting message auto-handles it; reply manually next business morning
 - If they ask for pricing without a call first: quote standard public pricing + offer a 15-min call to scope. Never negotiate over text.
 - If they're clearly cold/not interested: thank them graciously, ask if you can follow up in 6 months, don't keep pushing
 - If they're a clear competitor: polite acknowledgement, no more detail. “Appreciate the note – we're all solving this in our own way. Let me know if there's ever an angle where we'd both win.”

Tracking

Every new WhatsApp conversation → create a task in Vikunja tracker:

vk add 7 "WhatsApp lead: {firstname} at {company}" "First message: {date}. Status: {warm/cold/replied/booked/proposal}."
vk label <task_id> waiting-on-anushka
vk prio <task_id> 4

Weekly review with Rajiv – which conversations need a nudge, which are stalled, which should be marked dead.

Forbidden (account-safety)

- Don't use WhatsApp Web bulk broadcast – against ToS, gets accounts flagged
- Don't send to numbers you pulled from web scraping / lead-gen tools – WhatsApp treats unsolicited business messages as spam, reports by recipients ban accounts
- Don't use any 3rd-party WhatsApp automation tools – same risk profile as LinkedIn Comet situation; learned that lesson already
- Only message people who have a reason to recognise you – the number must exist in their contacts from prior interaction, OR they just gave it to you via a mutual intro
